With the possible exception of PS 3, all other courses for the major must be taken during the terms listed.

Students must also identify themselves to the Political Science advisers during their first semester if they hope to graduate in 3 years. This is crucial given the rigor and complexity of the plan.

Students are also strongly advised to work with a Political Science adviser and a college adviser to determine a complete program plan. Your complete program plan will differ depending on previous credit received, your course schedule, and available offerings.
